COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

MORAL, MENTAL, AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

The philosophy of the mental economy and of government and the great subject of morals, not mere speculative, but as they affect the heart and infuence the life, will be taught with care and dielity. Subjects: Moral Philosophy, Mental Philosophy, Political Economy, Constitution of the United States.

The position of the Christian Mother in sectory, and her peculiar fitness to fashion the plastic ining and heart of the young, demand that she should be thoroughly instructed in all that pertains to the truths of religion; and hence the word of God, with the evidences of Christianity forms a part of the course of instruction.

Subjects: Scriptural History, Chronology, and Geography; Evidences torms a part of the course of instruction.
Subjects: Scriptural History, Chronology, and Geography; Evidences of Christianity, Christian Ethics. ANCIENT LANGUAGES

The course of study in the ancient languages is sufficiently extensive to train the mind to careful and patient thought, as well as to insure a better acquaintance with the English language. Besides translation and analysis, the doctrines of quantity and the netres will claim attention, while the classic authors will be illustrated by the light of ancient history, chronology, and geography.

Subjects: Greek Language, History of Greek Literature, Grecian Antiquities; Latin Language, History of Latin Literature, Roman Antiquities.

In the mathematics great pains will be taken to insure an ac-quaintance with the subjects pursued, and especially to teach prin-ciples rather than burden the memory with a multiplicity of rules. Natural philosophy and chemistry will hereafter be taught with illus-trations and experiments. A cabinet of minerals will be fitted up to afford facilities for the study of mineralogy; and physology will be studied with such assistance as may be derived from anatomical out-

ENGLISH AND BELLES LETTRES. ENGLESH AND BELLES LETTRES.

As this forms the basis of all the subsequent pranches of study, especial pains will be taken to render instruction in it efficient, and thus facilitate the popul's progressive acquirements. Composition will negage a portion of the pupil's time commensurate with its importance; not any subject of interest with each subject of the composition will receil, and express their ideas upon any subject of interest with ease and elegance. Arithmetic will be taught with especial regard to practical utility, and the pupil will be repeted familiar with such calculations as occur in marketing, in shopping, and 4th log grocery. As the circumstances of a family depend not only upon what is made in business, but what is arred at home, book-keeping will be laught to the young hades, as a great auxiliary to domestic economy.

Subjects: Orthography, Beoding, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, Ristory, Book-keeping, Rhetoric, Logie, Criticism, History of Literature, Composition.

MODERN LANGUAGES.
